

TURKISH JOURNAL OF OBSTETRICS AND GYNECOLOGY

EDITORIAL

Dear Colleagues,

I am proud to announce that Turkish Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology is now accepted to be indexed in Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI) in addition to prior databases covering our journal; EBSCO, DOAJ, Index Copernicus, Scopus, Cinahl, Google Scholar, Tübitak/Ulakbim Turkish Medical Database and Turkey Citation Index.

This fast and assertive step of our journal is mainly due to your support as authors, editors, reviewers and readers. The importance of ESCI is that all content of our journal will be available in Web of Science by the year 2016. Further evaluation of journals' content and its impact factor will contribute for our evaluation for SCI-expanded. All manuscripts published in our journal will be searchable and citable in Web of Science. Your work will be more visible in the international arena, and its contribution to our discipline will be evaluated through impact factor.

We have another goal for 2016 which is to apply to Pubmed Central. In order to achieve these goals we are building up a multicenter trial subgroup which will gather in 10th of January 2016 in Kocaeli. Please contact me through dreraycaliskan@yahoo.com for joining this group and meeting. The multicenter trial group will collaborate to collect rare cases, to start prospective randomized trials and will set standarts for these collaborations.

Also in order to set standarts for being a member of the Editorial board the current Editorial board will meet in 10th of January 2016 in Kocaeli. This will provide a chance for every scientist contributing to the journal and the literature to become an Editorial Board Member.

Best Wishes,

Eray Çalışkan
Editor
